to capitalize on business intelligence and grow brand equity to developing cutting-edge products, services and customer experiences, he demonstrates how you can create and maintain a competitive edge – and effectively apply it in context.

THE NEW RULES OF MARKETING AND PR

The Internet has changed everything for modern marketing, advertising and public relations (PR) professionals. With connected audiences' attention fractured across blogs, websites, social networks, online video sites and more, suddenly, it's not just about reaching end-users – it's about creating compelling content and stories they'll actively seek out and share. Via the lens of case studies and practical, real-world examples, discover actionable promotional and content strategy solutions that businesses of every size can use to better connect and communicate – and transform the size, shape and volume of conversations overnight.

MAKING STRATEGIC DECISIONS: HOW TO SPOT AND SEIZE OPPORTUNITIES BEFORE COMPETITORS REACT

Technology, business and social change continues at a blistering clip, as entire industries and trends emerge and evolve in their wake. This powerful, informative presentation illustrates how to implement strategic planning, business intelligence and decision-making frameworks that allow organizations to identify emerging opportunities, and respond, before rivals can react. Using techniques pioneered by leading research and consulting firm TechSavvy Global, whose futurists have helped today's biggest brands anticipate and react to evolving market trends, attendees will learn how to anticipate and capitalize on new opportunities, and accelerate business growth, before rivals can even react.

ACHIEVING GREATNESS: ENGAGING AND EMPOWERING INDIVIDUALS AND TEAMS

From executive management to marketing teams, sales representatives and customer service associates, literally every facet of your organization plays a vital role in its continued success. Give individuals and teams the training and skills needed to produce inspiring work, make the most of emerging opportunities and effect unprecedented change by implementing the tools, techniques and processes needed to grow and evolve in today's high-pressure environment. World-renowned analyst and bestselling business author Scott Steinberg, a strategic advisor to Fortune 500 businesses and brands, demonstrates how today's most successful organizations can foster a culture of greatness, and give their people the training and skills required to produce singular results.

HOW TO REINVENT EDUCATION, HEALTHCARE, SALES AND BUSINESS

In a series of energetic and inspiring presentations, one of today's top technology futurists and business strategists shows modern education, healthcare, sales and business leaders how to enhance learning, improve organizational results, and boost productivity and performance by leveraging new tools, trends and strategies to effect positive change. Through market research, continued education and practical, real-world insights, attendees (including teachers, healthcare or school administrators, and sales and marketing teams) will learn to recognize and act upon the benefits and opportunities that technology and emerging trends create. Built to empower modern professionals and educators, a range of dynamic discussions and workshops shows how to tap into the power of change and high-tech innovation to build a lasting foundation for professional advancement and growth.
